Erin Campbell is yet another life dramatically changed by the grace and power of Jesus Christ.

Born and raised in Phoenix, Arizona, Erin grew up in a household with great love, but no Christian guidance. Her parents taught her that hard work and a positive mental attitude were the keys to happiness and fulfillment.

However, by the dawn of her teenage years, she was looking for contentment in other areas. As years passed with no spiritual foundation or knowledge of Christ, Erin was brought to the brink of absolute destruction by the age of 30. Mired with addictions, fear and insecurity, she was lost in a sea of confusion and bound by worldly deception.

That is, until a very important business trip to New Orleans. Walking down Bourbon Street one night in 1993, Erin was intrigued by the animated presence of a street-corner evangelist. At the time a staunch atheist, she stopped to mock the very Word she would soon claim as truth. Upon hearing the gospel message for the first time, her hardened heart slowly began to soften. Six months later at a Billy Graham crusade, while alone on business in Columbus, Ohio, she gave her heart and life to Jesus Christ.

Transformation followed as Erin was freed from several life-threatening addictions and from the fears and phobias that had for so long stifled her existence. Today, Erin has dedicated herself to proclaiming that same life-giving message to others.
